

GLORY ACCRUES TO LEADER

To Be Remembered, One Has Only to Be First in Some Undertaking That Succeeds.

Adam's glory was in being the first man, and Eve's in being the first woman. They have been talked of through all the centuries for nothing except that they were the first to live, the first to be tempted and the first to fall.

And so it is with many other persons and events that find their places in history. Always it is the beginnings of things that shed glory on the participants. Christopher Columbus has just been honored again because he was the first to discover America, and the landing of the Pilgrims is celebrated because they were the first to colonize Massachusetts. Harvard rejoices in being the first institution of learning in what is now the United States and having set up the first printing press. The first settlers of any community are always persons of prime interest, and the first man to wear pantaloons or carry an umbrella, if living today, could coin money by putting himself on exhibition.

If one wants to be remembered, one has only to pick out the spot where a great city is to be built, or connect himself with an industry that is bound to grow, or do something that is bound to become the fashion. He is at once immortalized. Generation after generation will speak his name, and on anniversary occasions orators will sound his praise. He may be individually no greater than thousands who have come after, but the glory of having been the first will be upon him forever and a day.—Columbus Dispatch.

SET RECORD FOR PROFLIGACY

Danish Courtier, Hundreds of Years Ago, Started Fashion Copied by Some Modern "Sports."

The "sport" who lights his cigarettes with $5 bills had the pace set hundreds of years ago by courtiers in the reign of Queen Caroline Matilda of Denmark. Bills worth $30 were used by them as pipe lighters, and the leadership was taken by an old roue, Count Rantzau, who, although 60, won the love of the beautiful Sophia Livernet, of the royal ballet, a maid of 18 years. Rantzau was the brains behind the plot that broke the rule of the guilty queen and her lover, Dr. Struensee, and put the dowager queen, Juliana Maria, in power.

That astute lady promptly turned on Rantzau and ordered him banished. He was sunk in melancholy, but brightened long enough to give a series of balls and entertainments more brilliant than any the kingdom had known. Then he drew his pistol, and all would have been over had not the lovely Sophia entered at that moment and by singing a trio of old melodies to the tinkle of her harp, won back his desire to live. He did not die until many years later, and then died as he would have wished to die with his boots on, and as the result of a duel in France over the favor of a lady.

Capt. Roger Clap to His Children. Roger Clap's words to his children were:

"You have better food and raiment than was in former times; but have you better hearts than your forefathers had? If so, rejoice in that mercy, and let New England then shout for joy. Sure all the people of God in other parts of the world, that shall hear the children and grandchildren of the first planters of New England have better hearts, and are more heavenly than their predecessors, they will doubtless greatly rejoice, and will say: 'This is the generation whom the Lord hath blessed.'"

Capt. Roger Clap, an English colonist in America, was one of the founders of Dorchester, Mass., settling there in 1630. He was captain of the fort or "castle" on Castle Island from 1665 to 1686, after which, until his death, he lived in Boston. He is best remembered for his "Memoirs," which he prepared about 1676, but which were not published until 1731, when they were edited by Thomas Prince.

Porridge, a Talisman.

Porridge is what the Scots are brought up on; that and theology, and the curious thing is that only those who come from north of the Tweed know the secret of how to make it. The English have a breakfast dish made with oats, while the people of the United States are perfectly frank about it and call it "oatmeal." The Scots have been accused of being clanish, but it may be that they are only fond of their national dish. A traveler in Canada one morning alighted from the train at Scotia Junction. Did the name of the station and the pictures of Edinburgh castle and the Forth bridge in the little hotel bring back any happy memories? Perhaps, yes. Perhaps, no. Anyhow it was noticed that when he heard the quiet request, "Will yer hae some porritch?" a smile spread over his face. That settled it. The best must be a Scot.

Mean Advantage.

Chairman (of public banquet)—Gentlemen, before I introduce the next speaker, there will be a short recess, giving you all a chance to go out and stretch your legs.

Guest—Who is the next speaker? Chairman—Before telling you who he is I would rather wait until you come back.—Life.

Ed Temple and wife of Wakefield, are visiting relatives here this week.

Mrs. Ernest Runge is home from a visit at Wakefield with her brother, Henry Bartels.

Milt Foreshoe enjoys a joke so well that he tells one on himself. It happened last Wednesday when he took a 12-dozen crate of eggs into a Sioux City store to sell, and accidentally dropped the case and broke all the hen fruit but five dozen. He tried to clean up the mess with old papers but the harder he worked the worse the store remarked that he ought to be made to scrub the store, which sort of vexed Milt, and when a customer came in and offered him two cents a dozen more for the good eggs than the store was paying, Milt closed the deal right then and there and left the store keeper to finish the job of cleaning up the mess.

Misses Neva and Kathryn Ramsey surprised their parents last Wednesday evening by inviting in about 25 of the neighbors to help celebrate the 23rd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey. When this worthy couple returned from spending the day in Sioux City, they found the guests all ready to receive them. A very pleasant evening was spent, and the guests, before leaving, presented them with a half dozen fine linen napkins as a remembrance of the occasion.

The old folks' rehearsal held at the C. C. Beermann home last Thursday evening was a very joyous affair. The gathering enjoyed a lunch of old fashioned mush and milk and sour cream cake, served by Mrs. Beermann.

WAS IN DESPAIR SAYS MRS. WEIGEL.

Didn't Think Any Medicine Could Help Her, But Takes Tanlac and is Well and Happy.

"I have a better appetite, sleep sounder and have more life and energy since taking Tanlac than I've had before in ten years," said Mrs. W. A. Weigel, 4106 Binney Street, Omaha, Neb.

"Nine years ago my stomach began giving me trouble and I was going down hill gradually and recently I became almost helpless. My appetite was so poor I didn't care to eat and suffered so much that I actually dreaded to go to the table. Finally I got so weak and nervous I couldn't get any restful sleep and went down hill rapidly.

"I suffered so long and so much and had taken such a quantity of medicine I began to think there was nothing made that could help me. But when I began taking Tanlac it took hold of my troubles and in a short time the indigestion was gone. I now feel like a new woman, am just as well as I ever was and I owe it all to Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Dakota City by Neiswanger Pharmacy, in South Sioux City by McBeath's Pharmacy, in Homer by Brassfield & Jensen, in Hubbard by Duggan & Heffernan.—Advertisement.

bier entertained a large crowd at cards, after which a nice lunch was served, and $6.25 was taken in by the 15 cents a plate charged, the same to be added to the Community fund.

Monday night about thirty of the neighbors surprised Mr. E. L. Iden at his home on the Karst farm, it being that gentleman's 38th birthday. The ladies came armed with large coffee pots and baskets of lunch and of course everyone said goodnight with a smile, and wished Mr. Iden many happy returns of the day. Colds and grip seem to be quite prevalent in this neighborhood.

Agricultural Meetings Well Attended

It is estimated that 5,000 farmers attended the annual meetings of state agricultural associations at Lincoln. Fifteen organizations were in session during the week. Two joint sessions were attended by more than 2,000 persons each. Henry C. Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer; H. J. Waters, editor of the Kansas City Weekly Star; and M. L. Corey, counselor of the federal farm loan bank at Omaha, spoke at the joint meetings. Co-operation and organization were the keynotes of the gatherings, the general sentiment being that farmers can solve their problems by studying them carefully and then by the application of rational remedies. Few attended the meetings to complain and there was a distinct absence of radicalism. There was no talk of farmers' strike. The subject of co-operative marketing was discussed at many of the meetings, with the various phases of more efficient production and distribution receiving prominent consideration. The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation took steps to strengthen its organization and become more effective in promoting and protecting the best interests of agriculture. The committee in charge of Organized Agriculture considers the meetings this year among the best ever held.

State Encourages Home Orchards

Is it worth while to grow fruit for home use? This question is constantly presenting itself to hundreds of Nebraska farmers, as well as to persons living in towns and cities who have some space which can be devoted to fruit. Almost everyone is agreed that a home orchard is a desirable asset to the farm, provided it can be made to produce good fruit. The degree of success in growing fruit depends first, upon a wise selection of varieties, and second, upon their subsequent care. The actual amount of time and expense necessary to give the home orchard proper care is not great. In order to encourage home orchards, the College of Agriculture Extension Service has just published a 24-page bulletin dealing with the various phases of a good orchard. Those interested in growing their own fruit should have a copy of this publication. Ask at a Farm Bureau office or write the College for Extension bulletin 62, "Establishing the Home Orchard."

Farm Inventory is Good Practice

How many farmers know accurately their net financial worth, or how their investment in farm property is distributed? This information, which should be available to every farmer, as well as other facts of importance, can be obtained by preparing a list of farm property and farm debts every year, says a new United States Department of Agriculture farmer-bulletin called "Farm Inventories." Property lists, or inventories, as they are called, are not difficult to make, and are of great value to any farmer who is striving to better his conditions, overcome obstacles to success, and place his business on a secure foundation. To drift along year after year, not knowing whether your success or failure, is not the practice of business men. The farmer, as a business man, should know which way he is going. Ask at a Farm Bureau office for farmers' bulletin 1152, "Farm Inventories," or write the College of Agriculture, The College also has a farm account book which provides for taking a farm inventory. This may be obtained at most Farm Bureau offices and banks, or directly from the College.

Bred Sow Sale

50 Head of Big Type Poland China Sows and Gilts

of the very best breeding

Saturday, Jan. 29, 1921

At GIBSON SALE BARN, EMERSON, NEBRASKA SALE STARTS AT 1 P. M.

Everything cholera immune and guaranteed breeders or I will refund your money if notified in a reasonable time and the sow returned in good condition

They will be bred to "Another Rainbow" whose gilts on sale day will speak for his ability as a sire. He stands on the best set of underprunings that a boar ever had and transmits the same. The gilts are bred to "Orange Surprise" and "Resolute." Orange S. is by the great "Big Bob" boar that Chas. Schram owns and he stands fair to out-do his illustrious sire if he keeps on growing. He is the making of a 1100 lb. boar. Resolute is by "Orange Model," another giant boar. No offering this winter can surpass the breeding of these three boars. The sows are sired by "Fussys Timm," Major Price, "Imperial Buster," "Orange Model" and "Designer," a most wonderful breeder. The gilts are sired by "Another Rainbow" and "Iowa Timm," Fred Selvers new herd boar. Boys, he will make them all go some to be defeated next fall. The eight Timm gilts are bred to "Another Rainbow." I want to say that this entire lot is the best I ever offered for sale.

TERMS:—Cash, or you may have a reasonable time if you desire. A catalog will be sent on request.
